

GärtnerInitiative Arnswalder Platz

„Nothing flourishes without care, and the most sublime things are impaired by inexpedient maintenance.“
(Peter Josef Lenné, landscape architect, 1822)

„Public gardens in a city are supposed to bring glee to a broad public. The prerequisites are a neat design and careful maintenance.“
(Erwin Barth, landscape architect, 1913)

Public parks, squares and Gardens are sublime pieces of European Heritage. We as an urban gardening action group take care of Arnswalder Platz, a listed garden monument. Why do we show these pictures of our' square (big picture) and other Berlin squares and parks? See our flyer or visit us online: www.arnswalderplatz.de.
